Question # 5

- 1.) I believe it is available but not getting out to everyone, I would like people to know that this is something easy that can be done that could have a positive impact on our taxes
- 2.) yes I do but some people just won't do it no matter what. It's a shame
- 3.) I think you do a good job with information, people just need to get used to doing it.
- 4.) For me, yes. I have an interest in recycling anyway.
- 5.) We should compost the food from the school

Question #6

- 1.) 1 barrel per week
- 2.) 4 is good, but more depending on household size.
- 3.) Promote recycling however limiting trash does nothing more than promote illegal dumping on private property.....people still have a need to dispose of trash restricting how much trash you can dispose of does not change that need.
- 4.) I'd prefer to see encouragement for practical composting. The volume you mention above seems fine it there are certain times when a family is reorganizing and cleaning out rooms resulting in a bit more trash. The idea of being limited any given week feels uncomfortable.
- 5.) Unless a family is fairly large mandatory recycling should bring waste down to 1 barrel
- 6.) 6-8 kitchen bags
- 7.) Recycling should not be part of town but personal option
- 8.) yes with some way to deal with a week that you miss getting trash out or some kind of special event
- 9.) If we limit the amount, the balance will be dumped in the woods beside the roads.
- 10.) Did you consider snow storms and holiday trash?
- 11.) Should be LESS. How about a system like Portland = pay for special trash bags
- 12.) with our current property tax being as high as it is why would a property owner in Dayton accept another reduced service? With the exception of a grade school (that should be closed and consolidated to Saco) what other services does the town provide? Snow removal and trash collection. i am approaching 60 years old and will be forced to sell my home an move elsewhere because of the high property taxes. It's time to provide some service for the property tax we are "strapped" with!

13.) I feel two barrels is generous and if people put more effort into recycling they could get by with 1 per week.

14.) 1

15.) It's absurd telling people how much trash they will have?!!

16.) I usually have 3 or 4, but sometimes have more. I would hate to see a limit.

17.) 4 barrels is ok

18.) it's plenty for my small family, however larger families might not be adequate.

19.) No. This does not work in places where many people place collective trash near route 5.

20.) Four bags per week!? Way too much. How about two.

21.) Promotion of recycling by forcing a waste limit is a short-sighted, knee-jerk solution.

22.) however there are some weeks when more trash can't be limited because of big clean up or outs or parties

23.) Commercial trash and dumpsters need to be charged extra

24.) Yes- 1 barrel is ok- but please do not limit the # of bags we can put in a barrel.

25.) 2 barrels even seems high. Since I've started recycling and composting I have barely any waste

Additional Comments

1.) I just don't think about it. if it were mandatory we would. I can see the benefits but quite honestly people are lazy and don't opt for changing habits till forced to.
